

New York Could Soon Become the First State to Get Rid of Private Prisons

The ostensible land of the free has more prisoners per population than any country in the world