Jon Knowles has been active in the remote viewing community since 2000. He has been involved as a trainer, viewer, and project organizer. He is co-author, with Debra Lynne Katz, of Associative Remote Viewing. He is also the author of Remote Viewing From the Ground Up.

Here he focuses on various methodological nuances involved in precognitive forecasting of lottery numbers, horse races, athletic events, and various financial instruments. He describes the history of such efforts over the past fifty years. He favors a system involving a unitary target rather than a binary choice, suggesting that it provides statistically better results. He also discusses the potential social implications of applied precognition and speculates as well on the possibility of artificial consciousness.

New Thinking Allowed host, Jeffrey Mishlove, Ph.D., is the author of The Roots of Consciousness, Psi Development Systems, and The PK Man. Between 1986 and 2002 he hosted and co-produced the original Thinking Allowed public television series. He is the recipient of the only doctoral diploma in “parapsychology” ever awarded by an accredited university (University of California, Berkeley, 1980).
