

Healing the Planet with the Power of Mass Intention

LynneMcTaggart.com | May 23 2014

Since 2007 I have been asking a few seemingly stupid questions: Can the thoughts you think about things actually change them? And is the effect even greater if lots of people are thinking the same thought at the same time? Is it powerful enough, say, to heal another person – or even the world?

To answer these questions, I enlisted a team of physicists, biologists, psychologists, statisticians and neuroscientists from prestigious international universities and, in total, several hundred thousand of my international readers to carry out 26 of the largest mind-over-matter experiments in history.

I've run experiments on leaves, plants, seeds, water, hotspots and now individuals in need of our help.

And now, after our first Healing Intention Experiment on a human being, I have my answer, which I'm going to share with you tomorrow.

Tomorrow, over a two-hour broadcast on Quantum TV, we will reveal the latest and possibly most ambitious of our experiments: to heal a Gulf and Afghanistan war veteran suffering from post-traumatic stress disorder.

The Healing Intention Experiment, was double-blind, which means the neither the patients suffering from extreme anxiety nor the scientist himself studying them knew which patient we chose.

Neuroscientist Dr. Jeffrey Fannin, a psychologist with expertise in 'brain mapping' states of mental disorder such as anxiety, depression or attention-deficit hyperactivity disorder, who organized the experiment, hooked up our two patients with an EEG machine and then monitored their brain waves plus the brain waves of one 'intender' sitting in another room, who would participate with us in sending intention to the chosen target.

Over the month since our experiment, he has monitored all three, clinically and through brain mapping. The results will blow your mind, as it did ours. We're still reeling from the result.

On tomorrow's show, you'll have the opportunity to:

- See a video of our target, Todd Voss, 'before', during and 'after' the Experiment
- Observe his brain patterns in real time during the Experiment
- See Dr Fannin's scientific findings
- Find out what happened to many of our participants, who describe ecstatic, transcendent experiences of oneness, often life-transforming changes and personal healings
- See one of the 'intenders' as he describes what happened to him
- Join in with another Healing Intention Experiment to heal another patient with anxiety
- Get to experience this transcendent moment (and even the chance to heal yourself)
- Listen to Russian physicist Dr. Konstantin Korotkov, who has worked with me on a number of Intention Experiments
- Ask questions of me, Dr. Fannin and Dr. Korotkov via the Quantum TV live chat, monitored by Quantum University's Dr. Paul Drouin
- Connect afterward with others to compare experience

It's free to all, and this time we have a simpler entry system, to ensure that no one is locked out.

If you have registered already, or did so for the April 26th experiment, you will automatically be sent a link to the program tomorrow, four hours before. And do make sure to login early so we can fix things if you can't get on.

Here are those times again.
