Astrology Overview for Apr 30-May 06, 2018

The week begins with a Full Moon in the sign of Scorpio, squaring the North Node in the sign of Leo. The North Node is a notional point in the heavens, known to represent our Future Destiny and since last May it's been encouraging us all to express our creativity, flair, talents and individuality. This Full Moon asks us to consider the cost of any expenditure which is linked to having a good time, or future financial security. Based on the 2nd/8th axis of the Solar Horoscope, even without the input of the North present, anything to do with values, the things we share closely with other people, such as responsibilities, obligations, joint finances, and long-term security and prosperity, come into focus. The desire side of the Moon in Scorpio is very strong, and if anything is out of kilter, around these areas, even issues which until now have been kept confidential or even secret, can be pushed into the open.

Ironically, the Sun forges a great angle to Saturn in the first half of this week which provides an excellent counterpoint to this Full Moon, with Saturn giving us the chance to restructure our resources sensibly, or to use what we have in an appropriate way. Any kind of business scheme or strands can benefit from good research, thorough analysis and patient application. In the second half of the week the Sun forges a fine link to Neptune, which can lead to acts of altruism, kindness, and caring towards those who are less fortunate. Expect for someone to ask for help with a sponsorship scheme.

Thursday also sees Mercury finally emerged from shadow. But then a retrograde end in itself on the 16th April, when it 1st began on 23 March it was at 16° Aries, and this is the point that it returns to on 3rd May. If there has been any element of our situation which is stalled now it can start to pick up momentum, and make potent progress.
