Horoscopes Sunday 18th March 2018

Aries 21 March – 20 April

The Moon in your sign can see you becoming excited about a relationship or a project that could make a difference to your life. The presence of Mars your ruler in sobering Saturn though, may be a call to think things through and to consider what such plans mean for you over the long-term. While you often enjoy beginning anything new, can this sustain your interest Aries?

Taurus 21 April – 21 May

You may be in a reflective mood and pondering what makes you really tick. With Venus, your guide, presently in a secluded sector, you can become aware of your attachment to certain people or situations and the extent to which they may be keeping you in the past. This isn't to say that you should let any of these go, but more that exploring new options can be helpful to you too.

Gemini 22 May – 21 June

Although there may be a lot going on, on the outside, with a powerful focus on a sensitive zone there may be some intense emotions boiling within you too. However, your social life has the chance to sparkle over coming days. And yet with lively Mercury your ruler, preparing to rewind and with a deeper pulse showing, resolving an issue with a friend could feel so very healing.

Cancer 22 June – 23 July

While someone can seem keen to be a part of your plans, it may be wise not to count on their continued support. In fact, don't sign them up for anything just yet, as their situation can change over coming weeks. Another very grounded person may prove more reliable though. You'll likely sense that you can trust them to do what they say, and to do it to the best of their ability.

Leo 24 July – 23 August

With the Sun in the last degrees of your sector of soul bonds and shared assets, you may note a natural desire to tie up any loose ends associated with these areas. Within a few days, the Sun will shift into your sector of travel and learning opportunities Leo. To make the best of this, it may be just as well to put certain matters to rest, so you can enjoy any new adventures to the maximum.

Virgo 24 August – 23 September

With potent Mars now in your leisure sector, this stirring influence can gift you with the courage of your convictions regarding your creativity, starting a small business or a potential romantic bond. While other more heavyweight planets in this zone can see you doubting yourself at times, the presence of fiery Mars here can be instrumental in encouraging you to make a bold move.

Libra 24 September – 23 October

The Moon in your sector of relating suggests that events involving others can be fun. Even if a family member shows some reluctance at first, they may soon rally to your suggestions. And whether you are going on an outing or enjoying a homely celebration, there can be warmth and camaraderie in the air. Indeed, you could be in your element and feeling very contented.

Scorpio 24 October – 22 November

While you may have opportunities to agree to plans and create a strategy for them to be realized, it might help to give yourself some leeway. Over coming days, it can seem that progress is being made, yet other factors could come into play that require research and discussion. Try not to tie yourself down to times and places just yet, as things could easily change over the weeks ahead.

Sagittarius 23 November – 21 December

With dynamic Mars in your sector of finances and values, the coming weeks can see you being more proactive in this area. If there have been difficulties in getting to grips with money issues, this influence can see you diving in and doing your utmost to sort things out. Whether this involves some radical work or just a little streamlining, you can begin to feel more in control.

Capricorn 22 December – 20 January

If you're set to entertain, your horoscope suggests you can enjoy yourself immensely and your guests may also have a great time. You might have other things on your mind that can be more interesting though, and that can take you away from family activities. Even if you are keen to get on with personal plans, connecting with those you haven't seen in a while can be very rewarding.

Aquarius 21 January – 19 February

You may be happy to get a call from someone, whether it is to catch up, or an invite to somewhere interesting. The coming days can be excellent for mingling and for making new connections in general. However, if someone offers you a deal or you are thinking of signing something important, then anticipate that whatever you agree to, could go through further revisions.

Pisces 20 February – 20 March

With lively Mars now in your social sector, the coming six weeks or so could see you active within your community or keen to take part in other group projects. Although it may be enjoyable to be so involved, there could be a temptation to give yourself more to do than you can handle. Allowing yourself time out to completely relax can be essential to your well-being too Pisces.
