

New Research Predicts Billions Of Habitable Planets in the Milky Way Galaxy

Source: Newsy Science

Researchers looking for habitable planets in the Milky Way galaxy are using a model that estimates more planets could support life than previously thought. Their findings indicate the Milky Way is home to billions of planets properly positioned from their parent stars for liquid surface water, and therefore potentially habitable.