

UCLA-Led Study Is First to Find a Solution to School Bullying That Actually WORKS

Many K-12 school efforts to reduce bullying have proven not very effective, leading educators to wonder what bullying prevention approach works best. A new study finds one anti-bullying program works extremely well, it significantly improves self-esteem and reduces depression.