

Was This Magnificent, Ancient Cup Made With “Nano-Technology?”

The Lycurgus cup is unique in many ways. The cup's glass appears red when lit from behind, and green when lit from in front. It was made by a mysterious, and as yet, not entirely understood the process, which resulted in a phenomenon known as “dichroic glass,” a form of glass that can change color depending on which angle light passes through its structure.
#nanotechnology