

World's Oldest 'Computer' May Be Older Than Previously Thought

The Antikythera Mechanism has had scholars scratching their heads over how the Greeks managed to build a mechanical computer a hundred years before the birth of Christ and thousands of years before anything similar.