

Coca-Cola Caught Paying 'Health Leaders' To Say Soda Is 'Healthy'

Would you like a healthy dose of high-fructose corn syrup with that organic salad? If you're listening to one of the 'health experts' on the payroll of Coca-Cola, this suggestion could in fact be a reality. According to a new report, many health writers, bloggers, and spokespeople are being compensated in order to push toxic soda onto the public as a health drink.