

War is a Racket & Not What It Seems To The Majority of People: Major General Smedley Butler

The idea that the latest gas attack in Syria was fabricated by the western military alliance in order to justify intervention in that country clearly outlines how 'fake' things are. These fake terrorist attacks, both home and abroad, are not only used to justify military action, but also to take away our rights here at home and justify surveillance and a heightened national security state. This article is not going to go into the Syria attacks, but I put more information in a recent article titled "BBC Producer Blows The Whistle & Admits The "Gas Attack" Footage From Syria "Was Staged."
